Katie's heart lights way for lell the story of the Mountain Ridge Lady Miners' run to two straight undefeated state championships without mentioning Katie Llewellyn?

To do that is to take away its heart, and what makes their 46-game run of perfection truly special, truly unique.

Last year, Katie's second fight with leukemia (the first was when she was nine) was the rallying point for the Lady Miners, who wore wristbands with Llewellyn's number.

Katie was there, too, when she could be, wearing her uniform, and supporting her older sister Taylor, her father and assistant coach Dave, and her teammates.

No one came out of that dugout when the final out was recorded in 2012 with more joy than Katie.

Last year, Mountain Ridge won the state title for Katie.

Her fight won, they did it with her this year, and because of her.

Because without their junior right fielder, it may not have happened

Katie started the playoffs modestly, with an RBI single in MRHS's

10-0 win over Southern. Then, against Fort Hill, it was her defense, throwing in from right field to first base in time to preserve Carlie Lewis' no-hitter in a 7-0 victory. After the Lady Miners won a hectic 5-4 game against North Carroll in the regional final, Llewellyn hit an insidethe-park home run to give MRHS an early 1-0 lead against Perryville in the state semifinals. Llewellyn later singled and scored in the bottom of the sixth, again to give her team the lead, this time for good, 4-3. In the championship game, Colonel Richardson could not get Katie Llewellyn out. Three hits, the final one to set up Chelsea Muir's game-winner, and another championship for MRHS. On Tuesday during the recognition ceremony for the Lady Miners, her coach, Martha Mauzy, sang her praises. "This young lady's battle is a great success story on its own," said Mauzy. "It is truly the most thrilling moment in a coach's career to watch this young lady battle, not only for her life, and one year later battle for a state championship. Katie, you have been an inspiration to all of us. This all happened because you deeply cared and shared your experiences."

FROSTBURG - In what has been become a wonderful tradition in a very short time, the Mountain Ridge community once again gathered to support their state champions on Tuesday afternoon.

This time, it was the turn of the softball team, who finished 23-0 and as state champions, both for the second year in a row, and the girls' and boys' track teams, who had a relay champion, the record-Brandon Redmond, in the 800 meters.

"Wow. We had a little get-together Friday morning to send you off, with the idea of returning here and recognizing you," said MRHS principal Gene Morgan. "And here we are: great job, boys and girls. Fantastic."

"The only problem I see: we'll have to switch some banners around to make room," said Morgan.

"As I was coming up today and I was thinking about what I would say to you, it occurred to me that you've been in a high

Congress urges 'Skins name change

NFL

WASHINGTON -- Ten members of Congress are urging the Washington Redskins to change their name because it is offensive to many Native Americans. The representatives said

Tuesday they've sent letters to Redskins owner Dan Snyder, NFL Commissioner Roger Goodell, Redskins sponsor FedEx and the other 31 NFL franchises. The letter to Snyder says that "Native Americans throughout the country consider the 'R-word' a racial, derogatory slur akin to the 'N-word' among African Americans or the 'Wword' among Latinos." Among the group sending the letters are the lead-

WILMINGTON, Mass. — The speed and scoring touch that made Jaromir Jagr one of the NHL's best players are gone. Even the famous mullet that flowed from beneath his helmet disappeared many moons ago. But his passion for hockey remains. Now he's bringing that back to Pittsburgh, the city where he won Stanley Cups in his first two seasons. More than two decades later, the 41-year-old right wing can help the Boston Bruins win their second title in three seasons. First, they must beat the offensively potent Penguins in the Eastern Conference finals. The first two games are in Pittsburgh, with the schedule to be announced after the Western Con-

Wednesday. "I don't really remember the last time I was in this position," Jagr said after practice Tuesday. "It doesn't happen very often and the players should realize that. It's not automatic to make the playoffs or automatic to be in the last four teams to play for the Cup." Jagr was just 18 when his rookie season began in 1990. He was on the Penguins team that beat the Bruins in six games in the conference finals. A year later, Pittsburgh swept Boston in the same round, winning the first game on Jagr's overtime goal. The Penguins went on to win their first two Cups those seasons. Way back then, he

It's not as if he hasn't forward Sidney Crosby come close. "I think it's unfortunate that his numbers don't reflect his play," Boston coach Claude Julien said. "I can remember twice, he's got the open net, right next to it, and gets robbed twice. It's got to be a little frustrating for a guy like him.

"He's there. He's in the right position."

"It's right there. The Bruins fans haven't seen coming, goals are Bergeron said. "He's an amazing player. I'm learning a lot. You need to learn where to be on the ice with new linemates."

The Penguins certainly aren't taking him lightly - not one of the greatest players in their history.

"He's still got that good ability to get a shot off in tight spaces," Pittsburgh said. "So, yeah, I definitely think he's still a threat out there."

Brenden Morrow was Jagr's teammate with Dallas this season until being traded to Pittsburgh on March 24.

"He's still just as excited as any 18-year-old in the locker room," Morrow said. "His skills are still there. His big body's tough to move when he's planted and has possession of the puck. He played real well for us in Dallas, scored some big

"He's a threat every time he's on the ice.'

Penguins coach Dan Bylsma, just 17 months older than Jagr, agrees.

"I don't look at birth certificates," he said. "He's still got game, maybe not the same hair as he did when he was in Pittsburgh, but he's still got game."

A game that - as it did 22 years ago - can still help a team win a Stanley Cup.

"We knew what we were getting out of a 41-year-old (future) Hall of Famer and that was that he was going to be solid," Julien said. "He's been nothing but a great about the closeness of her

"I called them together before the game and sat them on the bench and asked them to tell the person beside them that they would do all they could do to support and help them win a state championship. They responded by tapping their teammate on the leg and telling them that they had their back. It was a very moving moment," said Mauzy. "We kept telling them all season long, if you take care of the little things, big things happen. Well, they accomplished an amazing feat. They did it by playing with their hearts. This team has set records that may never be broken." Mauzy said that the closeness goes all the way through the school (last January, the entire Mountain Ridge school community wore the color orange to support Katie), especially when it comes to athletic director Gary Davis.

"He still wears an orange wristband to support Katie Llewellyn in her battle with cancer," said Mauzy. "Mr. Davis can now take "Because Katie is not only back, but she's better than ever.' Wouldn't a third straight state championship next year, as a senior, be the perfect next chapter to Katie's story?
